new build development

Highview were appointed by Quinn London to undertake both flat and pitched roofing works to multiple new build residential apartment buildings in Croydon.

Works in total consisted of 1500m² of slate roof works, with single ply internal guttering, as well as 2500m² of Bauder Green roofs.

The biggest challenge to this contract was programme delays caused by service supply restrictions that were out of the control of the main contractor. The services delays meant that many other project contractors were delayed and we had to coordinate our own programmes and labour assignment accordingly.

Despite the programme set-back, overall this project was a success and gave the client a result they were very happy with.
